The versatile training set Albrecht Tectalk Training is the ideal assistant in all training situations and especially in noisy environments or with many trainees. Thanks to the direct transmission of information by means of proven 2.4 GHz radio technology, announcements within a radius of around 300 m are always clear and distinct. On the one hand, this makes training noticeably more efficient and on the other hand, spares the trainer's voice. The Tectalk Training is the ideal co-trainer / training partner, especially when instructions need to be given over a certain distance. The transmitter is small, lightweight and can be easily hung, clipped or plugged in. Meanwhile, the clip-on microphone ensures clear voice transmission to the receiver.

The lightweight ATR 430 receiver is fitted directly to the earphones in a minimalist design for maximum wearing comfort without annoying cabling. For a firm hold, the receiver can be adjusted to the individual ear size and personal comfort by means of different-sized ear hooks and a neckband. The ear hooks and neckband are designed so that they can also be worn under a helmet. This means that both trainers and trainees always have their hands free during their activities, which is very important in climbing, golfing, cycling, Segway riding and many other sports, for example.
